Do you consider yourself to have answered any of my questions?

I would like your two points to be elaborated.

1. What do you mean aggressive behaviour towards your staff? If anything, the staff did behave aggressively in the same manner the persecutors would to me here and there.
2. My request wasn't specifically "CCTV footage from the station team". I requested it from Network Rail. Does Network Rail have footage of the CCTVs that operate at its stations?

2a. I mentioned that even if you decide to mask the face of the thief, it shouldn't be a reason to deny my right to the footage of me altogether.

Dear Pers,

Ref: DPCMK2526_030

Thank you for your recent correspondence about a theft on 09 September at King's Cross station. As the Senior Public Affairs Manager for the East Coast route, I will be responding to this issue as a stage 2 complaint. I have attached a leaflet, which explains our complaints process in more detail, with this letter.

I am sorry to read of your experience. I understand that we've previously advised that this incident is reported to the British Transport Police, who are best placed to investigate this further. This can be reported here: Report a crime | British Transport Police

Whilst we always try to be an easy-to-deal-with and responsive company, we have a zero-tolerance policy towards aggressive behaviour towards our staff. We won't be reviewing our current restrictions on entry to the station at this time.

Under UK law, a Subject Access Request only allows you to see footage where you appear. You cannot view the footage of the person who stole your property. Only the police have the authority to investigate thefts. The station team does not hold the CCTV footage of the theft. This means that we do not have any footage to provide you. This completes our data protection obligations, and we consider the matter closed. We will not respond to any further data protection requests from you relating to the theft on 09 September.

If you are not happy about your CCTV request, you can complain to the regulator - the Information Commissioner. They can be contacted at: Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF - Website: <http://www.ico.org.uk/>.

I hope this information helps you to understand our position. For further information about our work, which takes place on the railway, please visit www.networkrail.co.uk/livingbytherailway. Alternatively, if you've any additional questions or concerns or wish to escalate this to stage 3 complaint, please visit www.networkrail.co.uk or telephone our 24-hour National Helpline on 03457 11 41 41.

Kind regards,

I would like to ask for the CCTV footage of the theft on 9 Sep again. It has been almost three months. It's unlikely that I would be able to get it from

Please also provide the email address of the responsible team for the following request.

I would like to ask Network Rail (hereafter referred to as King's Cross Station, where the matter occurs) to lift the withdrawal of implied permission, being released from custody by the British Transport Police.

I believe King's Cross Station knows that I have been made to live on the street since my belongings were stolen on 9 Sep. And that's why I often weather, toilet, and phone charging).

I also believe King's Cross Station knows that there were harassments targeted at me, and I didn't respond or responded mildly without escalating. With the above circumstances, I hope it can be recognised that I, as a victim suffering horrible crimes, have been avoiding trouble while resting at King's Cross Station.

Investigating the theft is one thing. Requesting for the footage is another.
I have contacted the police for the theft and also asked them about the footage, but I still want to request the footage from Network Rail.
I am not requesting Network Rail to investigate, but to provide the footage around the time of the incident.

Dear Pers,

I replied to you on the 6 October to explain Network Rail is unable to assist with the CCTV footage.

- Investigating theft is the responsibility of BTP, not Network Rail.
- BTP are in charge of policing the railway.
- BTP are connected to King's Cross station and can access the footage to support their investigations.

I am sorry Network Rail cannot help you, but I suggest you follow this up with BTP directly. They have the authority and resources to look into your case.

I appreciate this situation may be frustrating, and I hope BTP are able to support you in finding a resolution.

Kind regards,
Sheena

I am writing again because I haven't received a reply from Network Rail since my email on 9 October.

I am afraid the need for King's Cross Station to provide the aforementioned CCTV footage of the theft on 9 September is confirmed, as contacted by the police. My documents are lost as a result of the theft, but as mentioned before, I am unable to leave and am still living homeless around the area. I cannot afford to pay for a hotel.

I believe the aforementioned footage is needed. Please check the first email in this thread for the descriptions.

I am still stuck homeless in the area and ready to show up in person to prove my identity as the victim in thefts.

However, I would like to emphasise that I hope Network Rail will find and keep the related footage alongside letting the BTP handle the theft. I need the footage needed from Network Rail.

Whatever the case is please make sure that the footage is kept. I will most likely try to discuss until either side is fully convinced.

It feels most unnatural to me that you don't want to let the victims see who stole their property. Two of the reasons that supports doing this is to be careful with in the future and have a chance to find the thief themselves if they come across the thief.

In case I must submit a SAR, I most likely would challenge the refusal. Having to protect other people's privacy is not a reason to refuse to process the footage so that the identities of irrelevant people are protected. As for the thieves, I certainly hope that you will not "protect" them.

Hello Pers,

As a member of the data protection team, I want to clarify that we are not based at the station. We can only guide you to the relevant station to make queries you have. It appears they have already informed you that your stolen goods were not handed in.

Regarding the CCTV footage, I am unable to confirm whether it has been located. The British Transport Police (BTP) are responsible for this, as they have access to the CCTV footage and will be handling the investigation as part of their crime inquiries.

You can only submit a subject access request for your own personal information. It is important to understand that the footage of anyone taking photos or videos in the station is not your personal information. ICQ explains that we 'must also protect other people's rights over their information'. Network Rail has the rights to investigate this for you.

I am sorry we cannot help you. You must allow the BTP time to conduct their enquiries and I hope you manage to get your property returned.

Kind regards,
Sheena

Does that mean that the CCTV footage of both incidents are found and saved?

I would like to have a copy of the footage of both events.

Unsure of what the latter half of your email meant, I went to check with the station again and was told nothing was handed in.

I am requesting both Network Rail and the police forces to find and secure the CCTV footage of 2 incidents. Although my email was sending it to the police in case you find any information that will help with locating the footage and the progress of the cases.

(main content)

There was a theft incident on 9 Sep, in which my property was stolen. I am inclined to believe that King's Cross Station is aware of this. Unfortunately, there has been little progress with the police, despite more than three weeks having passed. It has been painful to see the street and survive on food from charities.

I have made the request for CCTV footage to the BTP. I would like to contact King's Cross Station as well to be safe.

The incident happened around 20:00-22:30 on 9 Sep. The location was just outside the station. The area is part of the square, I am still stranded in the area, which I believe the Station must have noticed. I have long, messy hair and am still in the same red jacket. I fell asleep in the square and woke up to find my backpack gone. My black pack was black with white strings and signs on it.

My identity as the person whose backpack has been stolen can be confirmed by the staff with me showing up in person.

Whether the process goes smoothly or not, please make sure to find and secure the footage to prevent the loss of important information.

Another theft attempt happened around 01:4x-01:5x at midnight of 29 Sep. The location was the corridor-like structure where the train is mistaken. To be sure, I can show the staff the exact location in person. My clothing was the same as in the incident on 9 Sep.

Please try to reply promptly and ask everything that you need to know. While I can show up for identification and to show the exact location to the staff to communicate, as I can only read.

Hi Pers,

I am providing an update as a Stage 3 response in relation to your complaint regarding your request for CCTV.

Please find below and attached my response.

Dear Pers,

Thank you for your recent correspondence about a theft on 09 September at King's Cross station. As the Head of Communications for the East Coast route, I will be responding to this issue as a final stage 3 response.

As previously explained, under UK law, a Subject Access Request only allows you to see footage where you appear. You cannot view the footage of the person who stole your property. Only the police or Network Rail, does not hold the CCTV footage of the theft as all footage is deleted after 30 days. This means that we do not have any footage to provide you.

Whilst we always try to be an easy-to-deal-with and responsive company, we have a zero-tolerance policy towards aggressive behaviour towards our staff. I understand this notice was issued by the BTP. If you have any further concerns, you can provide feedback to the BTP here: Feedback | British Transport Police

As your complaint has been escalated to Stage 3 for a final response, we are unable to provide any further responses to you on these issues. You can read more information about our complaints process on the Network Rail website.

If you remain unhappy with this response, you can ask us to refer you to the Independent Complaints Assessor (ICA). The ICA won't comment on our policies, but they can say whether we have followed in how we've managed your complaint. Alternatively, as this relates to the station, you can be referred to the Railway Ombudsman at Rail Ombudsman.

Kind regards,

Dean
