I am writing this email because I am told to do so, although I believe no matter with text or email, BTP or Met reference number, the police don't have a problem finding my case.

I don't quite know what else I can say to convince you to stop this and let me get my properties back. Although this incident might look unique in some aspect, but deep down it's of the same nature of the mentality that twisted minds to do great harms to me over the years. This incident has caused me to live homeless for more than 2 weeks which you know very clearly. But things like this have continued for more than 3 years, probably much longer, just that I didn't understand how horrible this world was. I don't think they caused good, unless being able to "baby, heheheh" is good enough for you.

I ask the police again that you communicate with each other, which you must have been doing already, decide what happened and end this, and let me get my properties back. I am sure you can put an end to this in no time if you want to.
